

Rev. John Carson

Rev. Carson joined the office staff in August of 2003, assuming his duties as Associate Executive Secretary for Missions, Church Development and State and Regional Partnerships. He assists the Missionary Society in tending their domestic and international mission projects and encourages new models of mission work among our churches. He works with CCD to plant new churches, and helps our existing churches grow and thrive. Rev. Carson's third area of responsibility is the encouragement of church partnerships with state and regional associations.

John received his undergraduate (BA) degree from St. Olaf College, majoring in psychology and religion, his graduate (M. Div.) degree from United Theological Seminary of the Twin Cities, and a post-graduate (S. T. M.) degree from Yale Divinity School. Prior to coming to the NACCC office, he served as member / chair of the Missionary Society, the Spiritual Resources Commission and CCD. Ordained in 1982, he was active in many state and regional associations while serving NACCC churches in Michigan, Connecticut, Washington and Illinois.

John and his wife Susan reside in Franklin, WI. They have three children: Amanda is a graduate of St. Olaf College now living and working in New York City; Joshua is a senior at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio; Susannah is a senior at Franklin High School.

When not in the office, John enjoys time with family and friends, traveling, reading, theater, music, biking and exercise.
